

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT AND Ecosystem

What is Sustainable Development?

Sustainable development is development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs

Why is Sustainable development important?

Sustainable development is essential because:

- >Rapid economic growth and industrialisation have led to reckless exploitation of natural resources.
- >There is fear of complete exhaustion of these natural resources.
- >In the process of economic growth, damage is being caused to environment and ecology which ultimately will create insecurity for human beings.

Sustainable Development means we need to keep three things in mind at ones:

SOCIAL PROGRESS

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

CLIMATE AND ENVIRONMENT

TO BE MORE AWARE OF WHAT WE BUY AND HOW IT IS

WHAT IS THE OBJECTIVE OF SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT?

Economic growth – building a strong, competitive economy, by ensuring that sufficient land of the right type is available in the right places and at the right time to support growth and innovation; and identifying then coordinating development requirements.

Environmental protection – contributing to protecting and enhancing our natural and developed environment, while helping to improve biodiversity, use natural resources wisely, minimizing waste and pollution, and adapting to and helping to decrease climate change, including a global shift to low-carbon economy.

Social inclusion – supporting strong, vibrant and healthy communities by providing the supply of housing required to meet the needs of present and future generations; and by creating a high-quality of development, with accessible local services that reflect the community's needs and support its health, social and cultural well-being.

Sustainable development is the pathway to the future we want for all.
It offers a framework to generate economic growth, achieve social justice, exercise environmental stewardship
and strengthen governance.
