

The background is a vibrant, abstract composition of numerous overlapping circles and splatters in a wide range of colors, including reds, oranges, yellows, greens, blues, and purples. These elements are scattered across the white background, creating a sense of dynamic movement and energy. A large, semi-transparent light blue circle is positioned on the right side of the image, partially overlapping the colorful splatters and serving as a backdrop for the text.

Why is professional code of ethics important?

- A professional code of ethics is designed to ensure employees are behaving in a manner that is socially acceptable and respectful of one another.
- It establishes the rules for behavior and sends a message to every employee that universal compliance is expected.
- It also provides the groundwork for a preemptive warning if employees break the code.
- A code of ethics can be valuable not just internally as a professional guide but also externally as a statement of a company's values and commitments.

+ THE EXPECTED CONDUCT THAT PROFESSIONALS ARE TO FOLLOW

Businesses often establish a professional code of ethics to help employees decide if certain behaviors are acceptable. Some examples of this are:

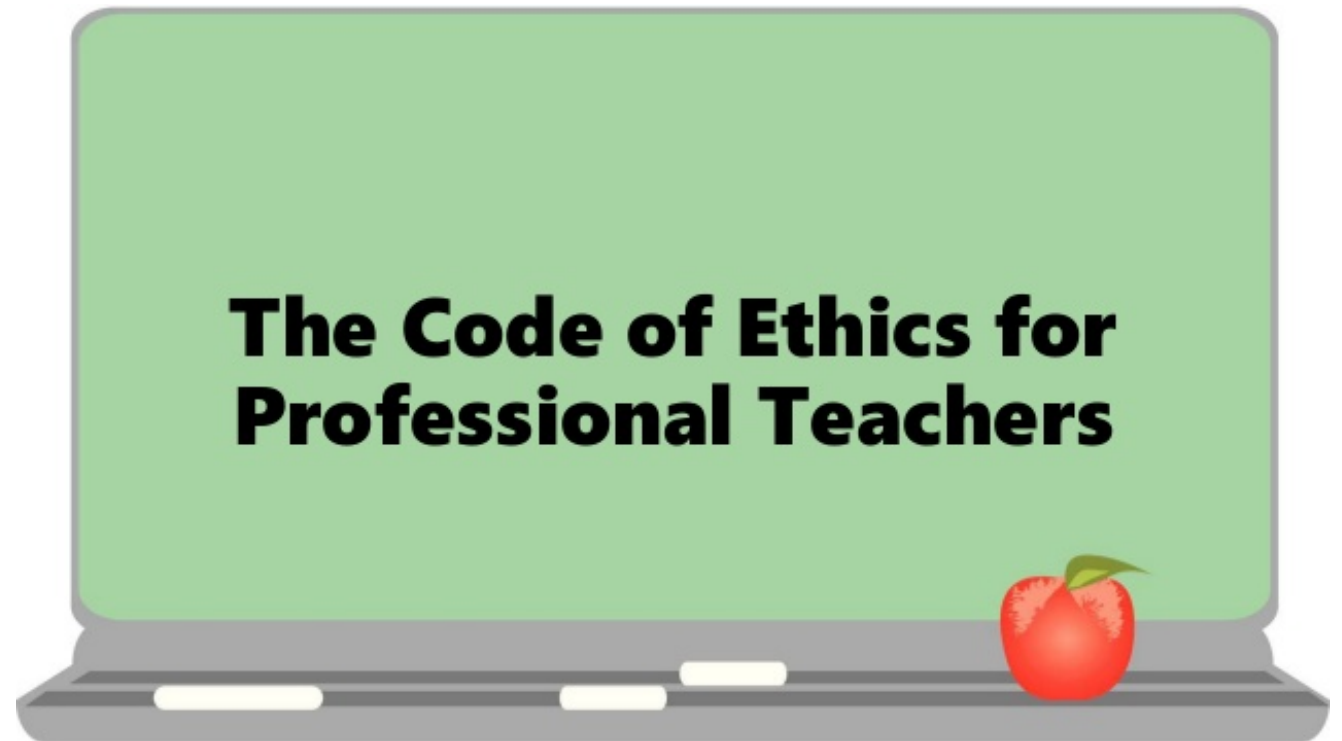

Confidentiality and privacy policies: Companies may require employees to maintain confidentiality when handling clients' private information or when dealing with the company's own proprietary data.

Caring and consideration policies: For example, if you provide home healthcare services to senior citizens, treating the patient and their family with care and consideration can impact your ability to obtain new clients.

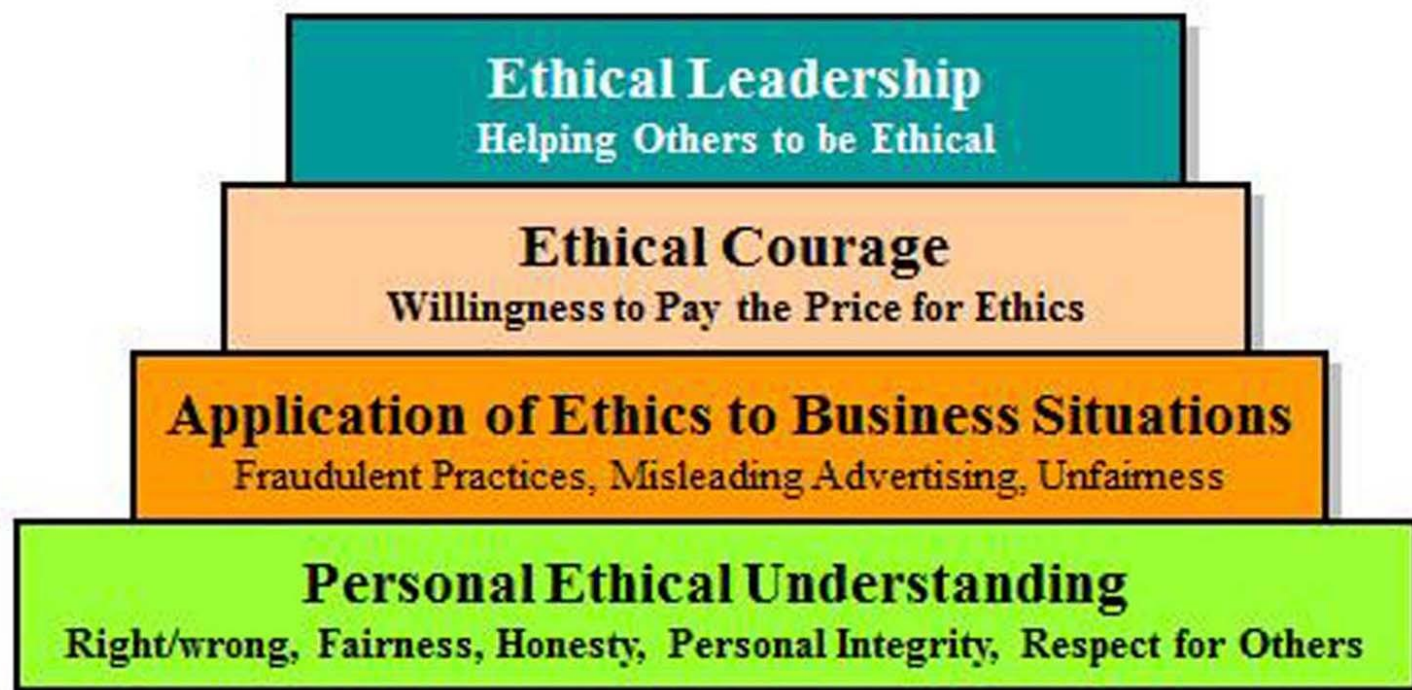

Employers could also include these policies about how employees treat one another. This can ensure everyone understands that behaving with consideration and compassion is a baseline expectation and that other behavior will not be tolerated.

- What is a code of ethics for teachers?

- A code of ethics for teachers defines the primary responsibilities of a teacher to their students and the role of the teacher in the student's life. Teachers are required to show impartiality, integrity, and ethical behavior in the classroom

- clients, as they provide greater transparency and certainty about how their affairs will be handled
- members of the profession, as they provide a supporting framework for resisting pressure to act inappropriately, and for making acceptable decisions in what may be 'grey areas'
- the profession, as they provide a common understanding of acceptable practice which builds collegiality and allows for fairer disciplinary procedures
